REGULATORY POLICY SERVICES

Regulatory policy is an essential component of the FDA regulatory landscape – it helps shape how regulators make decisions about the development, approval, and marketing of drugs, biological products, medical devices, and combination products. These policy decisions determine the feasibility of the development and use of new technologies and directly affect patient access to medical products.

Greenleaf's regulatory policy services are designed to support the needs of large and small clients as they navigate FDA regulations and regulatory policies. The firm's team of experts works cross-functionally to assist pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies, medical device manufacturers, patient groups, trade associations, and other stakeholders in communicating effectively about FDA regulatory policy issues and in understanding, implementing, and complying with the FDA's regulatory programs.

EXPERT INSIGHT

Greenleaf's well-regarded professionals have each spent decades working in leadership roles at regulatory agencies and within regulated industry. The Regulatory Policy Services Team provides advice and recommendations based on extensive institutional knowledge of the FDA's overarching regulatory approach, as well as deep and granular expertise regarding FDA regulation of medical product types across the product lifecycle.

TARGETED CAPABILITIES

Greenleaf offers unmatched insight on pre- and postmarket regulatory policy issues, product designations, expedited programs, regulatory intelligence, and scientific policy. Clients utilize our depth and breadth of knowledge to understand regulatory policy issues and build their capacity to implement, comply with, and communicate about FDA regulatory policy.

UNMATCHED REGULATORY EXPERIENCE

Greenleaf serves as a trusted regulatory partner, advising clients on the complex process of bringing new therapies to market. The team's multidisciplinary expertise helps companies evaluating and prioritizing their drug development pipeline to understand and effectively manage regulatory risk.

PREMARKET REVIEW PROCESS

Greenleaf's team of experts provides strategic and technical consultation on: scientific and regulatory practices for clinical programs and regulatory submissions, including endpoint and biomarker selection and development; identification of and eligibility for special designations (e.g., breakthrough therapy designation, fast track, and accelerated approval); use of real-world evidence in regulatory submissions; and preparation for FDA milestone meetings (e.g., EOP2, pre-filing, mid-cycle, and end-of-review meetings).

REGULATORY POLICY SERVICES

Greenleaf offers strategic regulatory policy insight to support stakeholders' participation in and compliance with FDA programs and improve patient access to innovative medical products. Our team draws on deep expertise and institutional knowledge related to FDA regulatory policy, including novel programs; product designations and access to expedited programs; regulatory issues arising both pre and post market; regulatory intelligence and scientific policy; and building clients' capacity to effectively advance their regulatory policy priorities.

CELL & GENE THERAPY

The Drug and Biological Products Team assists sponsors of cell and gene therapies with FDA interactions and submissions — including early INTERACT and pre-IND meetings; requests for orphan drug, RMAT, and rare pediatric disease designations; and data comparability questions — and helps to clarify FDA requirements for specific types of cellular products. The team also provides guidance on how to maximize clinical trial design for cell and gene therapies to treat rare and ultra-rare diseases.
