

Sean Hilscher

Vice President, Regulatory Policy

SPECIALTY

- Real-World Evidence
- Regulatory and Public Policy Analysis
- Market Analysis

EXPERIENCE

- More than 10 years consulting in U.S. health care markets and managing real-world evidence platforms

Sean Hilscher brings more than 10 years of experience as a consultant in the international and U.S. health care markets to his role as Vice President of Regulatory Policy at Greenleaf Health. Prior to joining Greenleaf, Sean served as a Director at the American College of Cardiology (ACC), where he managed a suite of real-world evidence platforms marketed to providers, payers, and life science companies. In the role, Sean provided objective analyses of markets, assessing the market impact of policy and regulatory changes.

Prior to his work at ACC, Sean was a manager on the Clinical Sourcing team at the Advisory Board Company. As a manager, Sean led data analysis efforts for operational and supply chain consulting engagements with provider organizations across the country.

Sean earned his MBA from the Georgetown University McDonough School of Business and an MA in Politics, Philosophy, and Economics from the University of Oxford.